To whom it may concern:

I was Clayton Allison's third party supervisor for three years. In that time he conscientiously followed the instructions of the court and stayed within sight and sound of me.

Though he has been convicted of this crime, my first-hand experience with him is very different, and I have known him for many years. I have always seen him as a studious and optimistic man, a good-natured person of integrity.

He is also hard-working and helpful. I don't think I would have been able to get my house painted last year without his help. He almost single-handedly painted the majority of the outside and my hall, kitchen and livingroom inside. His wife is disabled, and he has done a lot every day to take care of her.

We miss him dearly, and ask that you consider us and his good record when recommending a sentence.

Sincerely,
